I made a note of the prices, which I have since compared with those here, and I venture to assert that a poorman can live more cheaply in New York or Fort Worth than in this city. I intend at an early day, to decity. I intend, at an early day, to devote a letter particularly to this matter so that your readers in Texas who have been told that they pay high for what they eat may understand that they really pay no more than the people ray here.

they really pay no more than the people pay here.

I only got glimpses of the other interesting objects in Liverpool, among them being St. Nicholas church, which is the only real antiquity in the city. The old chapel was built in the time of William the Conquerer, but was destroyed. It was restored in 1774. There is a section of the city known as "the poor quarter," and its character will be understood when I give this advice, taken from my guide book: "A walk through it should be undertaken only in daylight hours." I suppose there is a "poor quarter," in every large city, but I have never seen in the United States such unmistakable evidences of States such unmistakable evidences of ines and liquors. Nat American reprints We saw a small piece of bread inside the iron fence, left doubtless by some ers here are very bitter child. He reached through the fence, neiation of American pulled the bread to him and having brushed the dirt from it, ate it with paying for the priving and American city is very rare, if is week the move ever seen at all. London is full, not here. Notice howev-me papers have noth-st English publishers and at the West end, the beg rks of American au- gars will average at least one to every corner. I counted yesterday in Lombard street, in sight at one place, thirteen old men and women, selling matches at a penny a box, and such other little wares. They eke out a precarious living in this way perhaps, but what must be the suffering here when the old, the lame, and the infirm must resort to such shifts to live! It may be that the contrast between the evident poverty of the old men and women and the wealth visible on every hand in Lombard street, (the Wall street of London) made the sight especially unpleasant.

Having referred to some of the un-pleasant features of this country, as seen by me since my arrival, it will now be in order to refer to some that are pleasant. One thing which has impressed me it is proposed strangers is the rule everywhere. It is proposed ld go directly into dock ing passengers; but at carrangements are not for tickets to Loudon, I found the employees as polite and accommodating ritten, but for the as the most fastidious traveler could a new and revised edi-that "at this writing about the politic spirit of accommodation in them is sadily undeveloped. Here the reverse is the rule. Ask as many questions as you please and you will scarcely ever be answered uncivilly. Indeed I have asked almost a thousand to date, and I have never once met with other than courteous treatment. I pur chased three first-class full tickets to London, and when I asked to be shown to an apartment on board the train. I was informed that my family and I would have one to ourselves. There was room in it for six, but the guard explained to me that his orders were its and the finest such tickets from others to secure a separate and exclusive apartment, been very rapid, all Naturally such a concession to American flavor. American flavor humor with English railroad officials, anyway. "In a hamlet; not "given taffy," in this matter, I have since then asked Englishmen as

Oh, My Back!

That's a common expression and has a world of meaning. How much suffering is summed up in it.

The singular thing about it is, that pain in the back is occasioned by so many things. May be caused by kidney disease, liver complaint, consumption, cold, rheumatism, dyspepsia, over-work, nervous debility, &c.

Whatever the cause, don't neglect it. Something is wrong and needs prompt attention. No medicine has yet been discovered that will so quickly and surely cure such diseases as Brown's Iron Bitters, and it does this by commencing at the foundation, and making the blood pure and rich.

> Wm. P. Marshall, of Logansport, Indiana, writes: "My wife has for many years been troubled from pain in her back and general debility incident to her sex. She has taken one bottle of Brown's Iron Bitters, and I can truthfully say that she has been so much benefited that she pronounces it the only remedy of many medicines she has tried."

Leading physicians and clergymen use and recommend Brown's Iron Bit-TERS. It has cured others suffering as you are, and it will cure you.
